1.

Dr. Vlado Clementis, Slovak Communist Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, was overheard to remark that the Communist Party would lose six to ten mandates if elections were held in Czechoslovakia today. He added, however, that the relative inactivity of Czechoslovak Communists would end before 15 January, 1948.

2.

Clementis was heard to state that the Communists have as much or more control over labor in Czechoslovakia than they do in France. He also said that, once the all-out offensive begins, the Communists should have complete control of Czechoslovakia within three to four months.
